

To new members of the CHTA,

Key benefits of all membership categories include receipt of the quarterly CHTA newsletter, with information about therapeutic horticulture (TH) and horticultural therapy (HT) programs across Canada and resources for research on TH and HT; an informative public website; a Facebook site that features job postings and educational events; and access to the CHTA's voluntary professional registration process.

A Business membership provides the additional benefits of a short complementary listing on the CHTA website and two print copies of each CHTA newsletter.

Your fee supports the mission of the CHTA to promote the use of TH and HT in a wide variety of settings and to raise standards for education and practice. Please complete the following to keep our records up to date. Thank you!
